Direct Cremation is a simple, unattended cremation without a formal service at the crematorium

A simple and dignified unattended cremation, with your loved one cared for throughout by our experienced team here in Worthing.

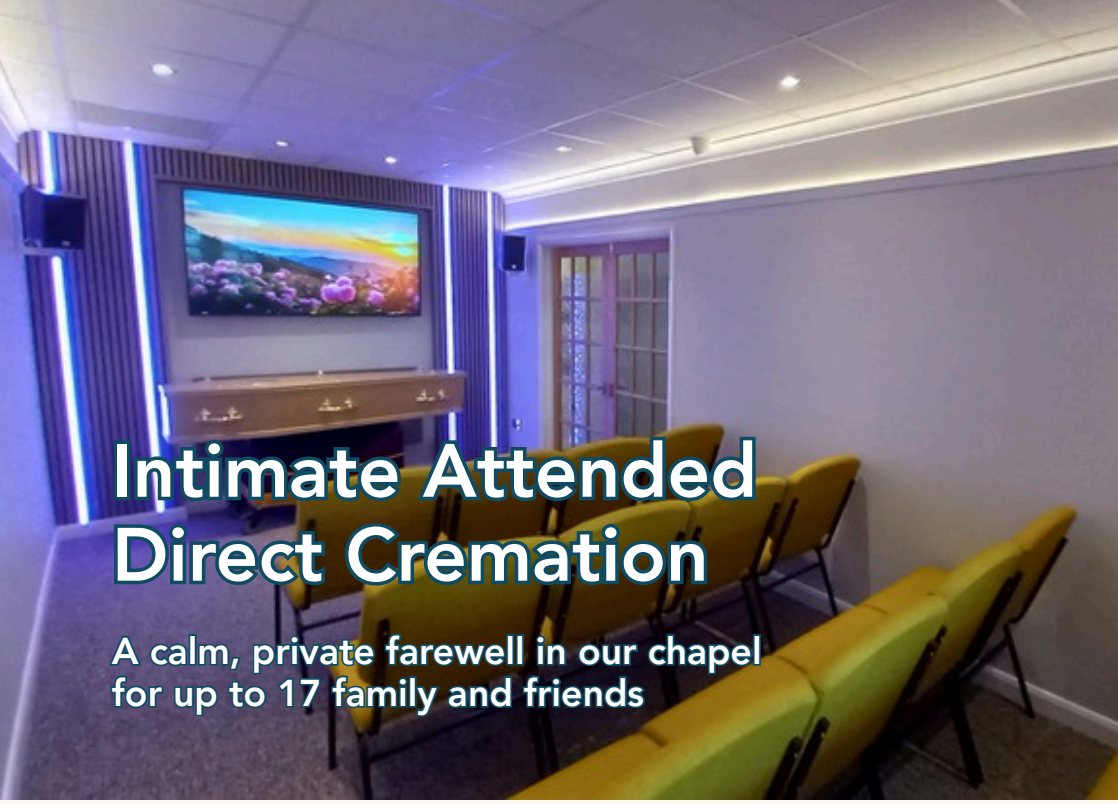

Families can still make personal choices including clothing, keepsakes, washing and dressing, chapel visits, and the return or scattering of ashes.

Your loved one remains in our care here in Worthing throughout. We will always agree the day of cremation with you, while all wishes are handled with dignity, kindness and attention.

Included within the £1,195 fee:

- Crematorium fees
- Provision of an oak-effect coffin
- Local collection from hospital and care of your loved one
- Direct cremation arrangements
- Return or scattering of ashes

At the crematorium, where permitted, a small number of family members may be able to say a final goodbye outside the chapel doors, and a chosen piece of music may be played as your loved one is placed on the catafalque.

Intimate Attended Direct Cremation

A calm, private farewell in our chapel for up to 17 family and friends

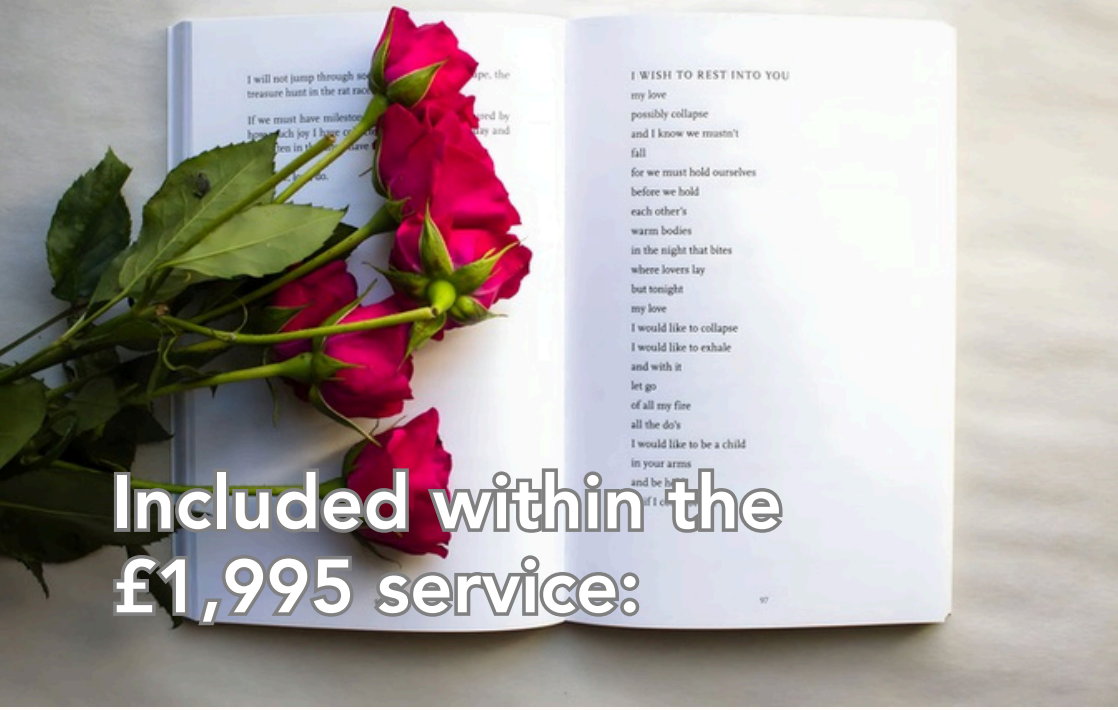

£1,995

A calm, personal way to say goodbye when a traditional full funeral service may feel too formal or overwhelming, but a direct cremation alone doesn't feel like enough.

Many families choose this option because it creates space for a private, unhurried farewell in our chapel, allowing close family and friends to gather together in comfort and reflection.

It offers the reassurance of being together, with the simplicity and practicality of a direct cremation arranged afterwards.

For many, it provides a sense of balance — time to say goodbye properly, without the pressure or structure of a larger funeral service.

Included within the £1,995 service:

- Private chapel farewell for up to 17 people
- Unlimited music via high-quality AV system
- Full guidance from a Rounce Funeral Director
- All arrangements for the direct cremation included
- Provision of an oak-effect coffin
- Local collection from hospital and care of your loved one
- Return or scattering of ashes

The service is gently guided by a Rounce Funeral Director, allowing you to include music, readings, poems, a eulogy, and moments of reflection in a way that feels natural and unhurried.

We allow time for the service to unfold without pressure, and we agree the day and timing of the cremation together with you — something many direct cremation providers do not offer.

Your loved one remains in our care throughout, here in Worthing, and never leaves for a distant facility or third-party setting.

Making a Funeral Personal

Helping families create a farewell that feels right for them

Funerals can be arranged in many different ways, from traditional services to more personal gatherings shaped around your loved one's wishes and personality.

Services may take place at crematoriums, churches, cemeteries, village halls, barns, gravesides, or other meaningful locations.

Families may also choose quieter private farewells, larger attended services, or more informal gatherings depending on what feels most appropriate for them.

Some families prefer a traditional atmosphere, while others choose something less formal or more contemporary. We are here to gently guide you through the options without pressure.

Personal Choices & Funeral Options

Coffins & Caskets

Families may choose from a range of traditional, contemporary, and environmentally conscious coffins.

Hearses & Funeral Transport

Options may include traditional hearses, horse-drawn carriages, motorcycle hearses, Land Rover hearses, or alternative vehicles.

Music & Visual Tributes

Favourite music, photo tributes, readings, hymns, and visual displays can help create a more personal atmosphere.

Orders of Service & Keepsakes

Printed orders of service, memorial cards, keepsakes, and personal touches can help families reflect and remember.
